BISBEE, ARIZ., AUGUST 28, 1900.

V. R. N. GREAVES has succeeded Paul Hull as managing editor of the COCHISE REVIEW. Mr. Greaves has been connected with the REVIEW since the initial number of that paper was published, and has, in fact, borne the burden of the editorial work. He is a capable and experienced writer and his promotion is well merited.—The Silver Belt.

NEW ZEALAND has led the way in extending the franchise to women, and all Australia will follow the lead of this the most progressive country in the world. The women have voted as much as the men on most important political questions, but so far in momentous matters where one would expect to see the woman's influence predominate, no observable difference has been made by the exercise of the right to vote. So that socially as otherwise that country has had no cause to repent granting the franchise to the women.

THE peculiarity in the case of Caleb Powers, who was sentenced to imprisonment for life for the murder of Goebel, is that it was a political murder purely. Republican power must be complete and murder must be resorted to to secure its complete authority. Probably this is one of the most sensational cases in political history, and it is to be believed that it is not only unique, but that it will stand alone as the leading case, as the only great case, where no other motive but political supremacy can be alleged as an excuse for murder. It will be hard to foretell the result of this tragedy. It would be difficult to suggest the political and social outcome of this astounding crime.

EY-SPEAKER REED always was too independent to suit the leaders of his party, and now he positively declines to stump from town to town in Maine. He speaks in a most sarcastic and cruel manner of Hanna, and there are few republicans who dare to defy Hanna. Strange as it may seem he objects to the administration's policy in the Philippines, and, in fact, he shows an unfortunate predilection to be "agin" the government in most of its more important undertakings. Reed's relations with the president have not been of the most cordial, and then naturally should he take a political tone of Maine he would have to touch upon topics in which he feels to be at variance with the leaders of the republican party.

THE Rev. Leach, of the Methodist Episcopal church, has succeeded in alarming our naturally timid nature. Not that we feel guilty in any way. Here is the tirade this cheerful minister poured forth: "Of course, I believe in the devil; an ugly black hellish devil, the road to his domain is filled with politicians (that's frightful), church members, husbands and wives." We don't believe a word against the two last in the catalogue. Politicians, of course, every one knows what becomes of them, but "husbands and wives" never! look at the strict moral code under which they live. Then "church members." That's slander, pure and simple. Who ever heard of a church member being in the power of an "ugly black devil?" This reminds us that Good St. Anthony withstood every temptation that the devil attempted, and never took his eyes off his big bible, but when Satan took the form of a remarkably pretty woman Good St. Anthony dropped the book, and—well, perhaps its the same with the church member.

A Good Injun.

Antonio Apache stopped here several days on his way to Moqui Snake Dance. Antonio is a notable example of what education will do for the Indian. An Apache of full blood, he has not lived with his tribe since babyhood. He is a graduate of Yale and has been in the employ of the United States for many years. He has made several trips to Europe, having just returned from the Paris Exposition, and speaks all the European languages. While he has the features and the stalwart physique of the Apache, his dress, manner, and speech are those of the educated, cultured American. Truly education of the right sort is the solution of the Indian question.—Holbrook Argus.
